Stars to bank on skill and pace

By GREY MORRIS

INDIGENOUS All-Stars coach Michael O'Loughlin says skill and pace will be his side's main weapons against Richmond at Traeger Park.

O'Loughlin wants to mark his coaching debut with a win when the All-Stars play in Alice Springs for the first time.

"Obviously we're a bit short as always and lack height in most key positions," Sydney's premiership forward said. "So we'll be using our main strengths, skill and speed, to run the opposition ragged. The players know they have to be tough at the contests to do that, so we'll see how we go."

The Territory will have eight players out on the ground tonight. Six of them — Jed Anderson, Steven Motlop, Curtly Hampton, Liam Jones, Allen Christensen and Steven May — will make their All-Stars debut.

Richmond will play several big names, including Jack Riewoldt and Brett Deledio.

Shannon Motlop returns the the Eagles' line-up this weekend

Eagles pick a strong squad

By GREY MORRIS

WANDERERS have loaded their side with some big guns in preparation for tomorrow night's NTFL finals qualifier against Southern Districts at TIO Stadium.

The winner of the 7.30pm will be in the box seat to secure third spot and a coveted double chance in the finals.

Champion utility Shannon Motlop and star on-baller Brad Vassal, and Nathan Djerkrura and slick moving midfielder Jared Erlandson are all back in the Eagles line-up.

The in-form Southern Districts opened a door to the future when they introduced 16-year-old Nakia Cockatoo to league football.

The son of Crocodile premiership player and NTFL representative Jason Cockatoo has all the skills of his dad.

St Marys have named goal-kicker Grant Weeks on a seven-man interchange bench for Sunday's top of the table clash against the Tiwi Bombers.

Former St Kilda high flyer Matthew Ferguson joins Weeks in the guessing game, while running defender Ben Rioli is also back for Saints.

Dennis Dunn medallist Gerrard Cunningham returns to the Bombers forward line for the 2pm game on Bathurst Island.

Cunningham will become the second Tiwi to play 100 games in a red and black jumper when the ball is bounced to commence hostilities.

Utility Tim Bongetti, Sam Sheldon and Nathan Daniels also return for the reigning premiers. Wingman Paddy Heenan will miss with general soreness, while Michael Fairweather is a late withdrawal.

Clever forward Davin Hall and ruck rover Jack McEwin have been added to a Waratahs side looking to snap a two-game losing streak.

Key defender Deon Gordon is back in the Nightcliff side that tackles Darwin in tomorrow's 2.15pm game at TIO Stadium.
